

Dr Suraj Kumar Mallick is an Assistant Professor at the Department of Geography, Shaheed Bhagat Singh College, University of Delhi, New Delhi with the PhD degree in Urban Planning from Vidyasagar University. Before joining the faculty position, he experienced as a Research Associate (RA) in Department of Geography, Delhi School of Economics (DSE), University of Delhi, New Delhi for 6 months. Later he joined as a Post-Doctoral Fellow of Centre for Technology Alternatives for Rural Areas (CTARA), Indian Institute of Technology, Bombay. He was also served as a Contractual Whole Time Teacher (CWTT) for one year at the post-graduation department of Bajkul Milani Mahavidyalaya (Affiliated by Vidyasagar University), West Bengal. His one of the recently published articles on “Sustainable Ecotourism Development using SWOT-QSPM Approach” is considered as “Best Impressive Research Paper” in the field of Tourism conducted by “Environment Science and Green Energy” at Hampton, Hilton Paris Clichy, Paris, France. He has already been published 17 research articles (High Impact factor and reputed Scopus indexed journals specifically Elsevier and Springer) and Scopus Indexed 3 edited book chapters. He has already been presented his research works in 12 International Conferences, 5 National Seminars, 2 State Level Seminars and also done 2 certificate courses on Global Hydrological Modelling (Canfield University, UK), Application of Geospatial Techniques in Modern Research (CEED, New Delhi). Besides teaching, he is already developed and enhanced a unified novel approach, known as Prediction-Adaptation-Resilience (PAR) approach to manage the future urban landscape development for small or medium scale cities in a sustainable way.